

Hi [manager's name],

There's an upcoming learning and growth opportunity I would like to discuss—it's the Autodesk Forge Accelerator. This is a week-long 1:1 training event where I would have the chance to work side by side with Autodesk Forge experts to build a cloud-based application.

I am confident that what I learn at the Accelerator will help me be more productive and efficient, as well as add value to our company. As an Autodesk Forge Accelerator attendee, I will be able to:

Work side by side with experts

I'll be in a room with the team that builds the Autodesk Forge APIs and have them on hand to troubleshoot as I build our application.

Have dedicated development time

A week of uninterrupted development time will accelerate the development of our application - most attendees leave Accelerators with a working proof of concept.

Be more efficient

I understand that results are important. As we've been using Forge APIs for some time now, I believe the insights and expertise I will gain from the Accelerator will fast track the applications we've been working on.

The event is actually free of charge, we are only responsible for travel and accommodations.

Let me know if you're on board and I would love to discuss more during our next touch base.

Thanks,
